

Radio Quotes

"Today's producers are faced with more market swings, technological advancements and agricultural policy changes than ever before." (10 seconds)

"The 2007 DTN/Progressive Farmer Ag Summit offers agriculture professionals valuable information to help address these and other industry challenges. The summit further demonstrates DTN's commitment to providing agriculture professionals with the most advanced, real-time information and services that can help them farm smarter."
(17 seconds)

"The 2007 DTN/Progressive Farmer Ag Summit, Grow and Prosper: Producer Strategies for High-Risk, High-Reward Agriculture" will help growers identify grain industry trends for 2008 and refine their marketing and business strategies to deal with them." (12 seconds)

"When you get right down to it, there are far more similarities between coaching a football team and running a business than differences." (7 seconds)

"La Nina and El Nino have very direct impacts on US and world grain markets. While we can do nothing to change the weather, as producers we call all make subtle differences in our marketing and production practices to maximize profit potential and minimize weather and market related risk." (12 seconds)

"Sometimes it's not about working harder, it's about working smarter and using all the tools you have available to you. The presenters we have lined up for this conference are experts from across the country in a variety of areas. Our goal is to help producers use new tools in marketing, weather prediction and team management." (14 seconds)

"Today's younger generations of farmer are consistently moving away from farming and ranching- this has created a shortage of knowledgeable agricultural professionals." (6 seconds)

"The risks for agriculture producers are greater now than they've ever been. Look at the corn industry- in the past ten years they've went from competing only with other US farmers to competing with farmers in Brazil and Argentina. Producer education has never been more important." (14 seconds)